Two National Guardsmen Die As Pursuit Ship Catches Fire While In Air

BOTH PARACHUTES FAIL

Fatalities First As 24,000 Take Part In Maneuvers

OTSEGO, Mich., Aug. 18—(UP)—Two army fliers engaged in maneuvers with the Second army, were killed today when their pursuit ship caught fire during a power dive over a farm near Otsego.

The victims Second Lieutenant William W. Harding, of Los Angeles, attached to the 94th pursuit squadron at Selfridge field and Private Francis Maier, address unknown, were killed after they had bailed out of their blazing craft.

Force of Fall Unbroken

Witnesses said the parachute of one of the fliers failed to open and that the other hesitated too long before pulling his ripcord. As a result, the 'chute did not break the force of his fall.

The bodies fell on the McGree farm. Death of the two fliers were the first fatalities in connection with the army maneuvers in which are participating 24,000 enlisted men and members of the National Guard.

Harding was a graduate of Leland Stanford university and was said to have been attached to March Field, Calif.

JACKSON'S CORPS COMMENDED FOR EFFICIENT WORK

Colonel Harry D. Jackson, N. Scioto street, was commended Tuesday in statements issud by Brigadier General L. S. Conelly and Major General Dudley J. Hard for the work of the 112th Medical Regiment of the Ohio National Guard during the recent training period at Camp Knox, Ky.

Colonel Jackson is commanding officer of the 112th medics.

General Conelly's compliment reads: "The very efficient work of the 112th Medical Regiment wherever in contact with this brigade was of such nature to make the undersigned justified in commending that organization for its efficient service and splendid co-operation."

General Hard said: "In forwarding this communication the division commander is pleased to take advantage of the opportunity to add his appreciation of the outstanding service rendered by the excellent organization throughout the period. Please accept my thanks and congratulations."

Pictures From Spain Show Rebel Leaders, Captured Men

NORTHERN and southern Spanish insurgent commands were united when Gen. Francisco Franco, supreme commander of the Fascist rebels, arrived in Burgos, Spain, from Seville, and joined with Gen. Emilio Mola, northern insurgent commander. Above, General Franco is seen, left, in Seville, with the pilot who flew him from Morocco, where the rebel outbreak began.

HANDS raised in token of surrender, a party of loyalist prisoners are show being marched to the rebel prison camp at Pueblo De Utera. The governments of Europe are watching the progress of the Spanish revolution with anxious eyes as daily occurrences threaten to embroil their countries in war.

Armed Guards Jailed In Norwood Trouble

NORWOOD, O., Aug. 18.—(UP)—Nine armed guards of the Remington-Rand company were arrested by police today.

Chaptain B. Coddington, county deputies, and Norwood police, halted automobiles of company guards enroute to the plant and arrested those found in possession of weapons.

Eight of the men arrested were charged with carrying concealed weapons and the ninth with shooting to kill. The latter charge was the outgrowth of action by guards late yesterday when they were alleged to have fired on four men.

Coddington charged the guards were aggravating the strike disorders and said the arrests were the start of a round-up of all employes of the company.

AKRON—Sit-down strike stops production in miscellaneous department at Firestone Tire and Rubber company. Total of 1,100 workers involved.

TOLEDO—Edward F. McGrady, acting secretary of labor and the department's "trouble-shooter" arrives for conferences in effort to settle dispute of gas workers. McGrady announces will not interfere in jurisdictional dispute at closure plant of Owens-Illinois Glass company.

FIVE BUILDINGS IN WOOSTER HIT BY MORNING FIRE

WOOSTER, Aug. 18 — (UP) — Damage caused by a fire which burned five buildings here early today and threatened for a time to spread to the entire downtown district, was placed at between $50,000 and $60,000 by Fire Chief Herbert O. Young.

The fire started in the Sweet Clover Dairy Co., and spread to four other buildings.

Fire departments of Wooster, Smithville and Shreve combined to fight the blaze.

News Flashes

LOUIS HEAVIER

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Joe Louis held a slight weight advantage over Jack Sharkey when they were examined today for their 10-round heavyweight bout tonight at Yankee stadium. Louis scaled 199¾ against 197¼ for Sharkey, the former heavyweight titleholder.

HIGH FARM INCOME

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Increasing food prices, resulting from the drought that has cut crops and put middle-west farmers on relief, will skyrocket farm income the last half of this year far above the corresponding period of 1935, the bureau of agriculture economics predicted today.

F.D.R. STAYS CLOSE

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 18—(UP) — President Roosevelt will not go "too far from home" on his campaign tours because of the critical international situation involved in the Spanish civil war, it was learned today.

CONTRACT NOT LET

Three bids were submitted to the county commissioners Monday for coal for the county home. The contract was not awarded.

F. D. R. STUDYING DROUGHT FACTS; MEETS VISITORS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 18.—President Roosevelt gave over the major portion of his business hours today to a report on the general drought situation preparatory to departure next Tuesday night for the northwest dust bowl.

Taking advantage of a small engagement list that left him comparatively free, the chief executive planned to assimilate facts and figures for use when he meets the governors of the affected regions in a series of conferences, the first of which will be at Pierre, S. D., Aug. 27.

Mr. Roosevelt took time out yesterday from his routine schedule to confer with Franklin Brooks, Larchment, N. Y., and Henry Hornidge, former mayor of Mamaroneck. Later he saw Louis B. Wehle of New York, Peter Van Horn, former member of the National Textile board, and Charles Pettijohn, general counsel for the motion picture industry.

NEGRO IS NAMED IN HOTEL DEATH

Cabaret Girl Identifies John Gray, 33, As Man Who Owned Notebook

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—(UP)—A gaudy shirt and a cabaret girl in Chicago's "Little Harlem" today gave police the identity of the man they sought for questioning in the hotel room murder of attractive Mary Louise Tramwell, 24, bride of 18 months.

John Gray, 33, minor southside negro police character, bought olive-skinned Aubrey Tatum a drink in a negro tavern last week, she told police.

She said he was the owner of a notebook dropped a week ago by a negro prowler on a fire escape under Mrs. Tramwell's room.

She identified him by a green and white shirt he wore the night she saw him.

Mrs. Tramwell was slain in her hotel room while her husband, Thomas G. Tramwell, was away on his regular run to Detroit as a dining car conductor.

FARMER - LABOR LEADER RUSHED TO MAYO CLINIC

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 1—(UP)—Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota lay in a drug-induced stupor at Mayo clinic today while physicians waited results of an examination into a recurring, painful stomach ailment.

The governor was rushed to the clinic, from which he was released only a little more than a week ago, by airplane late yesterday from his Gull Lake summer home near Brainard.

Mayo physicians refused to admit his condition was serious, however, and said he returned to the clinic simply because it was "impossible to care for him satisfactorily at his summer home."

They said there would be no operation.

Olson, spearhead of the powerful Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota, made the two-hour plane trip on a stretcher in the aisle of a specially chartered plane and was accompanied by his nurse, Irma Sasson, Dr. A. B. Rivers and Richard C. Lilly, president of the First National Bank of St. Paul, a close friend.

STEPHEN YOUNG STUDIES OFFER OF CONGRESS AID

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18 — (UP) —Stephen M. Young said today he would consider the offer made by Democratic leaders of five counties of the nomination for congress in the 13th district.

Young, congressman at large since 1932 did not seek re-election. He was, however, a gubernatorial candidate.

COUNTY FAVORS MISS SMITH FOR PENSION OFFICE

County commissioners named Miss Virginia Smith, Williamsport, as investigator of blind pensions Monday and approved her appointment as supervisor of aid for dependent children.

Her salary was set at $80 a month for the two positions. She will be granted four cents a mile car expense.

RICHMAN PLANE MOVING TO EAST FOR OCEAN TRIP

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 18.—(UP)—Harry Richman, stage and screen star, headed toward New York and London by plane at dawn today.

Dick Merrill, Richman's pilot, lifted their plane from TWA airport here at (6:15 EST) and pointed it eastward. They planned to reach New York late today.

Richman, who plans to make a round trip from New York to London in 24 hours, declared last night he is doing it "for the sport" and does not intend to "cash in financially" on the hop.

The flying singer's huge plane, he says, is virtually "fool-proof."

He claims that—should anything go wrong with the motor—40,000 pingpong balls, stuffed in the wings, would keep the ship afloat.

Richman and Merrill Landed here at 6:30 o'clock (MST) last night on the first leg of their flight after a three-hour journey from Los Angeles.

They plan to arrive in New York some time today.

COUNTIANS URGE HIGHWAY REPAIR JOB BE STARTED

A delegation of Monroe township residents appeared before the commissioners Monday urging work be started on the improvement of the Palestine-Williamsport road.

Three and one-half miles of the road, extending from Five Points northwest for 3½ miles, has been listed for improvement under a federal project. The road is to be improved, relocated at several points and one new bridge constructed.

It is understood work has been delayed because several residents refused to give rights of way and condemnation proceedings may be necessary.

JUDGMENTS TAKEN

Two judgments were returned in common pleas court on notes Monday. They were J. S. Dowden, Wayne township, against Carl Thomas, and others, $125, and Lawson Hill. Orient, against J. A. and Clara Knight, Orient, $120.66.

MT. STERLING, Aug. 19—Under an ordinance passed by the Mt. Sterling council all places where any beverage containing more than 3.2 per cet of alcohol is sold must close at 6 p. m. and remain closed until 7 a. m. the next day.

The penalty for violating the ordinance is a fine ranging from $50 to $200, or 30 days in jail or both.

MAYOR TO HEAR COSTLOW CASE; BARNES IS FREE

Hearing for Joshua Costlow, 72, of S. Washington street, on a charge of selling liquor without a license, was scheduled for 2 p. m. Tuesday in common pleas court.

Costlow was arrested Saturday night in a police raid in which gin and whiskey were confiscated.

Officers reported C. M. Barnes, 51, E. Main street, held for investigation in the case has been released.

FOUR UNHURT AS CAR AND TRUCK CRASH ON RT. 56

Four persons narrowly escaped injury Monday evening in an automobile-truck accident on Route 56, about six miles west of Circleville.

Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell, who investigated the accident, said a truck owned by the Union National Mill, Springfield, and driven by Orrin Zinn, 27, of New Carlisle, O., Route 2, overturned after striking the rear of a roadster driven by Lawrence Brigner, 24, of Kingston, Route 1. The truck driver told the officer he went to sleep.

The truck went off the road and overturned in a field. Both vehicles were going east when the accident occurred.

Margaret and James Brigner, also of Kingston, Route 1, were riding in the roadster.

SOLDIERS SELECTED TO BATTLE REBELS

Advance Through Badajoz Province Faces Challenge As Picked Troopers, Workers Move Toward Frontier of Portugal

CIVIL WAR MAY CONTINUE MONTHS

More Captured Men Massacred in Spain's Fighting, Government Announces

MADRID, Aug. 18—(UP)—The government dispatched today a strong force of loyalist regulars, civil guards, storm guards and picked workers' militiamen — the best of its forces — in a determined effort to stop the rebels advance through Badajoz province.

The column, composed of loyalists sent from Valencia on the east coast, moved westward toward the Portuguese frontier and the town of Badajoz (which the rebels captured last week end.)

A government communique announced the defeat of a rebel Fascist column at Medellin, birthplace of Cortez, 52 miles east of Badajoz. Loyalists in this battle are among those sent westward some time ago, before the rebels arrived in strength. A rebel attack at Santa Amalia in the same area was repulsed.

Dynamite Used

A violent pitched fight for Oviedo, in the northwest, continued. There miners and other loyalists are fighting their way in with all weapons including sticks of dynamite. New machine guns and cannon have arived to aid the loyalists.

The government admits that the rebels at Oviedo, under Col. Miguel Aranda, have surprised it by the stoutness of the defense. Their straits are reported to be desperate—short of food and water and under constant fire for weeks.

Sixto Puento, commissioner of public works at Oviedo, escaped from the rebels in the beleaguered city and wired the government:

"There is electricity only for the bakeries and the radio station. Water is rationed every three days. There is no coal, no milk, and there is a shortage of food."

The government is eager for the city's fall, believing that the besiegers will be released to move eastward on the San Sebastian area and south toward Madrid, thus stopping the rebel drive from the north.

Messages from the Guadarrama mountains north of Madrid indicated that the situation there was quiet. Loyalists continue to close in on Zaragoza, key town in the northeast. The main force is about 37 miles from Zaragoza.

Long War Expected

So great a catastrophe has the civil war become, that government and labor leaders, including Premier Jose Giral Pereia, believe it can not end before some time in the fall.

Indalecio Prieto, socialist leader, in an appeal to the women of Madrid, said that if they wished to aid the republic they need not try to enlist in the militia but instead make warm winter clothes for male militiamen—for the cold weather.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Five hundred loyalists were killed, hundreds wounded and 1,500 made prisoners when rebels captured Almendralejo, the news-

CIVIC CLUB MEN ENJOY FISH FRY AT DUNLAP CABIN

Sixty Kiwanians and ... gathered at the cabin of John H. Dunlap Sr., and John H. Dunlap Jr., in Perry township along Deer creek Monday evening to enjoy a fish fry and social evening. The Dunlaps were hosts.

Two of the members, Fred Pontoon and Joe Burns, fished, without luck; several others took a cruise up Deer Creek in a rowboat with Charlie Radcliff providing the motor power; others played ball, Bill Radcliff ending the workout when he drove the ball into the stream, and the same Bill Radcliff and Bob Terhune went swimming.

The club will meet at the Wardell home next Monday evening. On September 14 a ladies' night program will be presented at Williamsport with members of the Chillicothe club to be invited.

WALNUT SCHOOL FILLS ITS STAFF FOR NEXT YEAR

Miss Ruth Cory, Frankfort R. F. D., and Miss Ruth Byers, of near Amanda, were employed as fourth and seventh grade teachers, respectively, at Walnut township school by the Board of Education Monday evening.

Miss Cory succeeds Helen Hedges who accepted a position at Worthington. Miss Byers replaces Mary Rader, employed at Fremont.

These two teachers complete the Walnut township teaching staff.

Five vacancies remain in high school teaching staffs of county schools. They are: Saltcreek township, music and Latin teacher; New Holland, physical education, science and history teacher; Williamsport, Latin and commercial subjects; Washington, sixth grade and music, and Pickaway, Latin, French and home economics instructor. All of the vacancies will be filled within the next 10 days.

Seven States Benefit From Rainfall, While Others Still Suffer

NEW FOREST FIRES BURN

Three Out Of Every Four Dakota Families Needy

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 -- (UP) — Scattered showers broke over the heat-drugged middlewest today.

Thunder storms rumbled over seven states in an area where nearly half a hundred persons died under parching rays of the sun since Aug. 1, and weather forecasters said danger of another wide-spread heat wave was abated.

Cooling rains fell over eastern North Dakota, central South Dakota, southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois, eastern Iowa, northeastern Missouri and northwestern Indiana. Broken, scattered clouds, except over the "dust bowl," covered most of the ramaining area, forecasters said.

Remains Above 100

But they predicted no relief from record-breaking temperatures in the "dust bowl" states — western Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri — where thermometer readings continued over 100 degrees.

New forest fires burned in northern Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan timberlands where 30,000 grimy men and boys had hoped week-end rains had smothered the most devastating fires since the $16,000,000 blazes of 1918.

Howard O. Hunter, in charge of the federal government's vast drought relief program, said three out of every four families in the Dakotas were destitute and that at least 120,000 farmers would need relief.

It meant that at the wage of $60 a month, the government relief expenses in these two states would amount to $720,000 monthly.

Creeks Drying Up

Officials at Kansas City said scarcity of water in that area was becoming an increasingly grave problem. Streams are drying up, they said.

They reported farmers were staying out of their fields because of the heat.

Representative temperatures: Cairo, Ill., 102; Evansville, Ind., 102; Concordia, Kan., 104; Des Moines, 98; Omaha, Neb., 106; Kansas City, 108; Wichita, 102; Chicago, 71; Nashville, 98; Phoenix, Ariz., 102; Buffalo, 72.

Harry Daly, 50, and Joseph Clarkson, 70, died of heat exhaustion at St. Louis, Mo., and at Ft. Wayne, Ind., Herbert Bender, 35, and Harry Laughlin, 42, drowned while swimming.

Storm warnings were posted at Brownsville, Tex., where a tropical hurricane was expected to move inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

all Tales

A STORY, tall and probably untrue, is told by his friends about Otis Mader, E. Main street merchant. Mr. Mader was persuaded to buy a parrot. It had traveled far, and could jabber in several languages. He ordered it sent home.

The same day Mrs. Mader had ordered a chicken for dinner. On leaving the house, she said to the cook: "Mary, there's a bird coming for dinner. Have it cooked for Mr. Mader when it arrives."

Unfortunately, the parrot arrived first and Mary followed instructions. Dinner was served.

"What's this?" inquired the merchant.

Mary told him.

"But for goodness sake, Mary," he cried, "this is awful. That bird could speak several languages."

"Then why the dickens didn't he say something?" asked Mary.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

FRANCHOT TONE, appearing with Cary Grant in support of Jean Harlow in "Suzy," at the Cliftona theatre, was born February 27, in Niagara Falls, New York.

He is six feet tall, weighs 165 pounds, has light brown hair and hazel eyes.

He went to small private schools in Niagara Falls, N. Y., Pottsdam, Pa., Arizona and Saranac Lake, following his parents who moved frequently.

Franchot's brother, a student at Cornell, made arrangements for him to enter that University a year early by special tutoring. He finished the course in three years, then attended a summer session at the University of Ronnes in France.

Upon leaving college, he studied several years with a theatrical stock company in Buffalo, then appeared in "The Belt" at the New Playwright's Theatre in Greenwich Village, and on Broadway in "Age of Innocence" with Katherine Cornell.

AT THE GRAND

Fifteen more boxes of cigars were added to Irvin Cobb's estimated total of 288,0000 during the production of "Everybody's Old Man," Fox picture which marks the debut of the famous writer as a picture, and which comes Wednesday to the Grand theatre.

But Cobb, who smokes the finest of long black cheroots, was too canny to waste good tobacco on rehearsals and spoiled takes. So he insisted that 20th Century-Fox furnish him the denicotinized kind, and reserved the pleasure of smoking real cigars for his leisure hours.

Rochelle Hudson, Johnny Downs and Norman Foster are the three principal supporting players in the picture, which presents Cobb as an old grouch who has the time of his life proving to a group of youngsters that he has a big heart behind the growls.

ODD PREJUDICE CHARGED

WOOSTER, O. (UP)—James R. Campbell, defendant in a civil suit filed an affidavit of prejudice alleging he is unable to get a fair trial in common pleas court. Campbell charged that Mrs. C. G. Gault, wife of the plaintiff, is too "chummy" with Mrs. Walter J. Mougey, wife of the judge.

Remember When?

General store of George Kline, Yellowbud, was burglarized.

On April 29, 1922, burglars obtained $100 in cash, a $50 Liberty bond and $135 worth of government savings samps from the store. The safe was opened by professionals. A window pane was removed to gain entrance to the building.

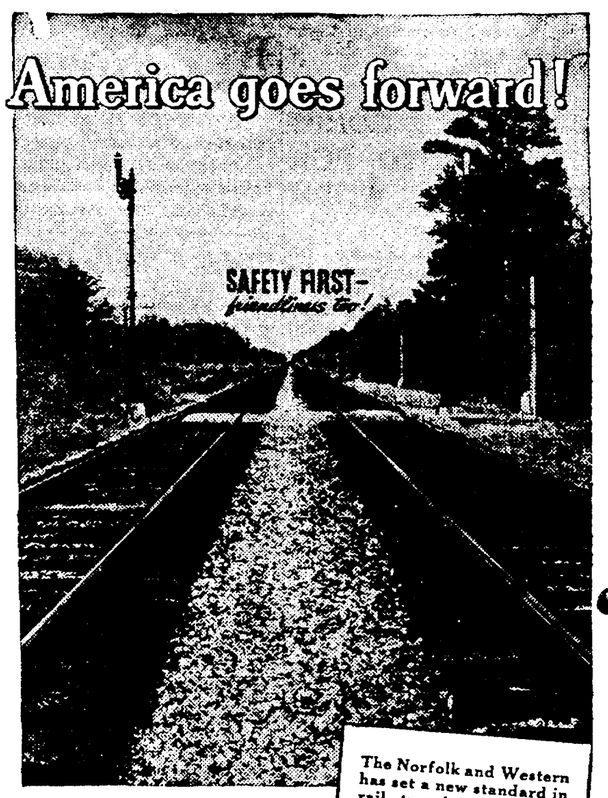
READY— as America goes forward!



IT IS certainly no news that America has been passing through a depression. The railroads, like every other business in the land, have had their problems, and plenty of them. And like every other enterprising American business, the railroads have faced those problems with honesty and patience, with resourcefulness, most of all with determination to go ahead.

A vast range and variety of betterments in railroad practice and equipment is the result — such betterments as air-conditioning, for example, which makes a railroad passenger car today the cleanest, quietest, most comfortable way to travel.

Conspicuous also is the notable step-up in passenger schedules, to a point where many limited trains now average mile-a-minute speed. And freight transport also has been speeded up — an average of 43%.

But the real story of railroad enterprise is scarcely told by these figures, for it is a story of speed with safety unmatched by any other transportation in the world!

In its details it is, perhaps, an undramatic story — of light rails replaced by heavier ones — of roadbeds improved — of brakes and couplings bettered — of locomotives increased in power — of courageous investment matched by constant thrift in order that service might be maintained and even improved in the face of reduced revenues.

The big fact, however, stands clear: the American railroads today are ready as America goes ahead—ready with the facilities and the men to move, adequately and reliably, the tremendous tonnage required by a recovering nation.

Depression has not halted the progress of the Norfolk and Western Railway. With a steadfast faith in the great territory it serves, this railroad has forged ahead in accord with its traditional policy of preparing today for the traffic of tomorrow. During the past six years —1930 to 1936—the Norfolk and Western has authorized the expenditure of more than $66,000,000 for additions and betterments to its transportation plant, including three new branch lines, new, luxurious air-conditioned passenger equipment; expansion of terminals, thousands of tons of heavier steel rail, thousands of new coal cars, box cars and locomotives; new and stronger bridges, elimination of grade crossings, and countless other improvements. The railroad has kept thousands of employees at work during the years of economic stress. It has greatly increased operating efficiency and improved services. It has contributed vitally to the continued development and prosperity of industry and agriculture along its lines. The Norfolk and Western stands in the front ranks of American railroads. It is ready to go forward to new triumphs in railway transportation.

The Norfolk and Western has set a new standard in rail travel. During the past year and a half the railroad has spent a million and a half dollars to give you the finest air-conditioned passenger equipment in the land. Beautiful, new air-conditioned luxury coaches, with deep soft chairs, indirect lighting, smoking rooms — tastefully decorated, air-conditioned diners, with matchless food and service — gay, comfortable air-conditioned lounge cars — handsomely appointed, air-conditioned sleeping cars. All gorgeously cool, restful, quiet, refreshingly clean. On your next trip, use the Norfolk and Western for utmost comfort, utmost safety, every convenience and fast schedules at rock bottom rates.

CRITES STARTS TO HANDLE CORN IN NEW HOLLAND

150 To Be Given Work In Plant, Only One To Be Opened By Firm

ASHVILLE TO CAN PEAS

Harrison Township Labor Expected In Two Weeks

The New Holland canning plant of the Crites Milling Co., was to open Tuesday afternoon to process sweet corn, furnishing employment to approximately 150 persons.

Unless the crop passes present predictions, this plant will be the only one the company will operate in the county for corn, M. M. Crites, plant manager, said. He predicted one-third of an average crop and indicated all corn would be trucked to New Holland. The company has approximately 3,200 acres of sweet corn in this county.

Arrangements are being made to open the Ashville plant in about two weeks to can peas prepared from dry peas, shipped here from the west.

OHIO FARMERS TO GUARD SOIL FROM EROSION

While most Ohio farmers are praying for rain, R. H. Morrish, agronomist, soil conservation service, says that land owners should make provisions to protect their fields from the destruction of winter storms which cannot aid crops but which do cause severe erosion.

Lack of water during the growing season has prevented the usual amount of plant growth on most Ohio soils. Pasture conditions are so bad that most of the fields have been overgrazed and the covering of grass will be thinner than usual. All these factors will combine to make conditions favorable for erosion during late fall and winter downpours.

Oats, wheat, or rye will serve to protect fields which can't be planted to these common grains. Oats will winterkill but if they are planted early enough they obtain sufficient growth to furnish ground cover in the winter. Wheat or rye are usually more satisfactory as cover crops and they can be plowed down in the spring in time to get the field ready for other crops.

D. R. Dodd, specialist in agronomy, Ohio State university, says thin pastures can be helped materially by applying lime and fertilizer and by reseeding the poorer spots. Lime should be applied only after the soil has been tested and this can be done by county agricultural agents. Mr. Dodd recommends the use of 20 per cent superphosphate or a 0-14-6 fertilizer at the rate of from 300 to 500 pounds per acre.

Early fall seeding of the grasses in the pasture mixture frequently gives the best results. A good mixture contains 7 pounds Kentucky bluegrass, 4 pounds timothy or orchard grass, 3 pounds red top, 3 pounds red clover, and 1 pound white clover. The legumes for this mixture can be seeded in the spring.

NAZIS ACCEPT FRENCH OFFER OF NEUTRALITY

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—(UP)—Germany has accepted a French proposal for neutrality in the Spanish civil war on condition that Spain release a German airplane seized on Spanish soil and that all countries which possess armaments industries adhere to the agreement, it was announced today.

There would have to be a rigid embargo on shipments of arms to private firms and individuals in Spain as well as to the rebel and loyalist forces.

The government suggested that the agreement be extended by a prohibition against enlistment of volunteers for either side in the civil war.

Lawyers Battle in Hewitt Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—(UP) — The Hewitt sterilization trial struggled through a tedious cross examination today to the exasperation of a court room filled with sensation hungry spectators.

Isador Golden, chief attorney for Drs. Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd, accused of depriving heiress Ann Cooper Hewitt of the capability of motherhood by surgery, had Miss Hewitt's attorney, Russell P. Tyler, in the witness' chair and was trying to force him into admissions supporting the defense's charge of a conspiracy.

Most of yesterday Golden and Tyler battled, the lawyer-witness proving a match for the lawyer-examiner. At the end of the day, Judge Reglan Tuttle told Golden to change his line of questioning, worn by repetition, or excuse the witness. Golden said he was tired and asked for a recess. He will resume the duel when court convenes today.

Conspiracy Charged

Golden had alleged that the mayhen charge that Miss Hewitt preferred against her mother, Mrs. Cooper Hewitt McCarter, and the two doctors, was part of a conspiracy to extrot from Mrs. McCarter a large part of her fortune. He had named Tyler, Dr. Pedar Brugiere, Mrs. McCarter's first husband, the present Mrs. Brugiere, and Brugiere's sister-in-law, as parties to the conspiracy.

He gained only two admissions from Tyler. Miss Hewitt's attorney admitted that he was acquainted with the Brugieres. He granted also that he had once represented Mrs. McCarter in a trifling damage case, but said he had represented the daughter as well He also had served several times his Brugiere's attorney.

Tyler represents Miss Eewitt in her $500,000 damage suit against her mother and the doctors, now awaiting trial.

Records Altered

In direct testimony, Tyler gave evidence against Dr. Boyd, a 72 year old surgeon and prominent in California medicine. The sterilization operation was performed on Miss Hewitt in the Dante sanitarium, Aug. 12, 1934, soon after her 20th birthday. Tyler said that Dr. Boyd had attempted to conceal the nature of the operation and had altered his records.

Learning indirectly of the operation, Tyler said he telephoned Dr. Boyd and asked about it. Dr. Boyd told him, he said, that the operation had been an appendectomy. On Jan. 4, accompanied by Dr. Brugiere and a private investigator, he went to Dr. Boyd's office and there the surgeon admitted having sterilized Miss Hewitt.

Spanish Soldiers Draw Wills, Face Gun Squad

MADRID, Aug. 18—(UP)—The story of the last hours and the deaths of two soldiers of Spain before a Spanish firing squad was obtained today.

The men who died were Gen. Joaquin Fanjul, rebel commander-in-chief for the Madrid area, and Col. Josee Fernandez Quintana, his chief aide. They were captured in the abortive revolt at the Montana army barracks, tried Sunday and sentenced to death.

At midnight Sunday, a judge of the military court appeared before Fanjul and Fernandez Quintana and informed them, as they had expected, that they must die.

Sign Own Death Decree

It was necessary, under the military law, that they sign copies of the death sentence. Both declined the judge's invitation to read the sentence.

Fanjul recoiled as he was about to sign, and seemed faint. Fernandez Quintana spoke to him, spurred him to sign and then, signing his own name, shrugged and said:

"What is it—merely a case of pneumonia."

The general and the colonel, veterans of many years of service under the monarchy and the republic, were taken to a nearby room, accompanied by their attorney, Fernando Cobian, there before two notaries public who had been summoned, they made their wills.

Fanjul, a widower, was engaged to marry Senorita Luisa Aguado, 46. He asked that she be called, and in the early hours of the morning she arrived hurriedly.

Fernandez Quintana summoned his sister Rosario, his next of kin.

Fanjul asked that a priest be summoned, and on his arrival he married Fanjul and Senorita Aguado. Fernandez Quintana, his sister and Lawyer Cobian were witnesses.

Next Fanjul and Fernandez Quintana were confessed by the priest. They asked to be taken to the prison chapel, where they prayed.

At 5 a. m. the new Senora Fanjul and Senorita Fernandez Quintana embraced the men and left. The priest and the lawyer remained, to say their own brief farewells.

Dress for Execution

At 5:05 Fanjul, in civilian clothes, and Fernandez Quintana, erect in his colonel's uniform, were taken to the prison courtyard, the patio de lavaderos—the courtyard of the washing places, the most isolated one of the prison.

Storm guards, workers' militiamen and troops from the Montana barracks who had aided in suppressing the revolt which Fanjul, Fernandez Quintana, and other officers led, were in formation in the yard.

The two officers were placed against a wall.

They faced the firing squad, composed of six civil and storm guards, six militiamen and six soldiers of the engineers corps, all of whom took part in the Montana barracks fight. Both refused to be blindfolded.

A sergeant from the barracks, commanded the squad. It was 5:10 when he gave the order: "Fire!"

At the instant before the order, Fanjul half collapsed. Fernandez Quintana held him erect.

Fanjul died instantly under the volley from the 18 rifles. He fell on top of his aide.

Fernandez Quintana was not killed and the second lieutenant administered the coup de grace with his pistol.

Two letters were found on Fanjul's person, both written on the day before the trial—Saturday. One was addressed to Gen. Emilio Mola, the rebel commander in the north. It was a formal report of the failure of the Madrid revolt. The other was a letter to his fiancee, now his widow, seeking to console her.

ADVERTISING AND PROGRESS

ADVERTISING has proven itself to be the barometer of progress.

It has not been long since business advertising was as severely criticized and ridiculed as boasting of personal qualifications. At the same time there was a little faith in the claims of advertisements as in the claims of the braggart. Only the quack and the imposter, who had everything to gain and nothing to lose, then resorted to advertising.

Business is ever the standard bearer and apostle of progress, and so it was business which discovered that advertising was a vital factor in all growth. When advertising was admitted to the fireside of business it was not the big business of today. Big business traces its beginning with its employment of advertising.

In its conversion to advertising business was soon followed by industry, commerce and the professions. The benefits of advertising had made themselves manifest in each step forward.

That was the evolution of advertising, until today advertising plays a part in every phase of life and is the working instrument of all except the doctor and the lawyer, who still consider it "unethical" to advertise for business. He may place his "card" in the newspaper, but it is professionally forbidden for the doctor or the lawyer to inform the public of his capabilities.

Nothing in life has attained perfection and evolution as an eternal, ever-continuing advancement. The evolution of advertising will not stop with its adoption by medicine and jurisprudence, but that adoption will establish another milestone of progress.

EVERY DAY BRAINS

DR. KARL G. MILLER, University of Pennsylvania psychologist, recently gave public utterance to a thought that is now new but surprisingly novel in expression. Many have thought it without daring to express it. As expressed by Doctor Miller it is:

"The American college must recognize more fully its responsibilities to the student whose interests are not primarily intellectual as well as to the prospective scholar. From my contact with the parents of boys seeking admission to the university, I feel that the proud father wants his son to go through a ripening process, to make many contacts, to become interested in many things, to have a good deal of fun and to do reasonably well in his studies.

"Unless I am mistaken, the inculcation of true scholarship, the love of learning, the inspiration for research—these do not appear in the definition of college education as it exists in the minds of prospective students and their parents."

Had the professor's candor gone a little bit farther he might have said that it is just as well, for how many institutions of higher learning could meet the scholarly needs of the inspired student and how many profound scholars could the world absorb without starving them?

The modern conception of a college and university is not a place where erudite professors are made, but a factory for the development of everyday brains and culture.

ARMY IN FLOOD CONTROL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON—The President's inspection of flood control projects has obscured the controversy that has been raging hot and heavy among experts of this administration—and previous administrations—regarding best means of flood control.

Chief dispute is between the Army engineers on one hand, and agriculture and conservation experts on the other.

The Army claims that the most practical means of flood control is by building dikes and deepening channels in order to shoot the flood water through to the sea in a hurry.

Conservation experts, on the other hand, claim that reforestation, dams and artificial reservoirs to store the water are the best flood solution.

Between these two groups, Roosevelt is inclined to side with the conservationists—so also is Congress.

TOO EXPENSIVE

The controversy of experts continues, however, the Army engineers making the following points:

1. That reservoirs are too expensive, requiring millions of dollars to buy dam sites and land to be flooded.

2. Also, dams are ineffective because the inhabitants living in towns just below them will not permit a heavy load to accumulate. They have to be opened just when the retention of water is most necessary to prevent floods.

3. Reforestation, according to Army engineers, also is the bunk. Worst floods occur in the early spring when the ground is frozen solid and incapable of any absorption. Also, the worst floods on record have occurred when the land was covered with forests—particularly the Mississippi flood of 1844.

Conservationists retort that the Army's plan of quick run-off of water through deep channels would carry millions of tons of irreplaceable top soil into the sea. They claim that money spent for dams and reservoirs now will mean big dividends to future generations.

COMBINATION OF CONTROL

The last flood control bill voted by Congress—$310,000,000—sided with the conservationists. It provided for 200 projects, most of them small dams. But previous appropriations under Hoover and Coolidge provided for dikes and channels, so the program is evenly balanced.

Here is a bird's-eye view of the flood control situation as now being inspected by the President:

Love isn't Important

READ THIS FIRST:

Gay Elwell, check girl in a prominent Detroit club, meets a number of social elite when she fills in at a dinner party at the request of Doctor Wilson, a club member. One is Breck Carter who is very friendly toward Gay; another, Wayne Adams who is both interested and annoyed by her; and finally, Tim Keenan and Christian Scott, both millionaires. Just as Wayne makes it evident he is beginning to care for Gay, he tells her during a party at his penthouse that he plans to return to New York soon.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 25

WAYNE'S hand tightened on Gay's arm as they stood on the terrace outside his apartment.

"Your thoughts are miles away," he complained, jokingly. "I've told you how jealous I am. What's on your mind, Baby?"

Gay laughed up at him.

"Stingy! Mark Vance always offers me at least a penny for my thoughts!"

"Gold-digging again." He took a coin from his pocket. "There! A dime. I ought to get a lot of thoughts, for that."

"No. Just two." Gay accepted the money with complete gravity. "My first thought was, that you are host tonight, and you shouldn't be out here with me, leaving the others to amuse themselves. And the second thought—"

"Something nicer, I hope!"

"My second thought was that I'm awfully chilly, and I'm going indoors. Really, this time!"

Wayne was instantly apologetic.

"I'm so sorry, sweet. Of course you're chilly—I didn't realize. There's quite a breeze blowing."

He stamped out his cigaret. "Perhaps it's just as well if we do go in. Breck and Peggy are about due to arrive. I'm especially anxious to see Breck. He made a long test flight today; I want to hear how the motor behaved."

Together they walked slowly across the roof. Before they had quite reached the French doors, Wayne halted and stood looking at Gay, his eyes puzzled.

"Why so quiet? What's gone wrong? You're like a little blue snail that's curled up into its shell, and pulled the shell in after it!"

Gay smiled. "The other night you said I looked like a Christmas Tree angel. Now I'm a snail. Is there anything else I remind you of?"

He looked into her eyes for several moments, without saying a word. Gay's breath quickened. He was so dangerously attractive—she'd been so close to the verge of falling madly in love with him! Half fascinated, half unwilling, she came a little nearer, while he stood, waiting.

His eyes were caressing; his sensitive mouth smiling a little. That was the way he had looked at her in the taxi, before—

But she mustn't remember. She mustn't. Involuntarily she drew away, with a faint cry. "Don't Wayne, please! No!"

The spell was shattered. He lit a fresh cigaret, with steady fingers. But his voice was not steady as he said, "Damn being a host!" and opened the doors for Gay to enter the living room.

The next hour or so passed, for her, like some confused dream. She danced with different men, flirted brightly with Charlie Pennell, listened while Mark Vance told her how exquisite she looked in the new silver-blue gown, and how much he'd like to paint a portrait of her, wearing it; and stood patiently at Christian Scott's side while he wove a new type of cat's cradle for her especial amusement.

But all the time it was as though her body were a mechanical toy, moving automatically, while her mind remained constantly with Wayne, going over and over their moments together, the words he'd said, the things he'd done, his every gesture and expression.

Later, when Breck and Peggy arrived, they brought two extra men with them: nice-looking young air service lieutenants from Selfridge Field. Peggy's eyebrows elevated, when she saw Gay. Her manner made it clear that she was surprised, and not particularly pleased, to find a check girl from her father's club included among the guests at the party.

As for Breck, he was highly excited because he'd made a successful trial flight that day, from Detroit to Chicago and back again, in record-breaking time. Dancing and roulette were forgotten, while he stood in the center of the room and gave a graphic account of his trip.

The description was too technical for Gay to grasp, and she found herself watching the expressions on different people's faces as they listened.

Difficult to tell exactly what Wayne was thinking. He sat back in his chair, taking in every word and frowning a little at times, but saying nothing. . . . Christian Scott, beside Dodo on the sofa, was quietly practicing a coin trick; Gay had heard him say once that he knew nothing about airplanes, and cared less. . . . Charlie Pennell, Mark Vance, and the two army aviators were obviously interested, they asked numerous questions. . . . And the women hung on Breck's words as though fascinated—perhaps by the thrill of danger, for a long test flight with a not-yet-perfected engine was a foolhardy venture, as Breck himself blithely admitted.

"But we made the grade," he finished, downing the last of his highball. "And next week we'll get ready for the trial flight to the coast."

"No, we won't," Wayne broke in. "Not next week. Nor the week after."

"Why not?"

"Because I say we won't. The motor's not right yet, and nothing you've done so far proves to me that it is." Wayne's voice softened a little. "Though you did mighty fine work today, Breck. I'm proud of you. What time did you land here?"

"Back in the hangar at eight o'clock. I don't care what you say, Ad, the engine's a honey. I'll give you the details tomorrow. But let's have some fun, now. I thought this was supposed to be a party!"

From then on, the evening hit a new pace, faster and gayer than before. One of the young officers who had come with Breck—Gay couldn't recall his name—was an unusually fine dancer. After a few trials of the other girls, he plainly made up his mind that Gay was the only satisfactory partner present, and he danced with no one else.

When he was cut in on, he lurked impatiently at the side of the room for a few moments, and then came darting back, tapping Gay's partner peremptorily on the shoulder. "My turn now. Sorry!" and took her in his arms again.

His persistence rather amused Gay, and a tingle of satisfaction ran through her, when she saw Wayne watching them with a shade of irritation in his quickly averted glance.

But why should she be thrilled if Wayne was jealous, if he cared enough to resent another man's rushing her? There could be nothing between them, she told herself firmly. Wayne was here in Detroit only temporarily. He was looking for a girl to pass the time with. A girl who would love lightly, and then say good-by when he was ready to leave, without tears or reproaches. Gay hadn't the slightest intention of being that girl. She had other plans; she couldn't permit this sudden attraction toward Wayne to interfere with them.

So she played up to the nice-looking officer; to Breck; to each man in turn; trying hard not to think of Wayne, not even to look toward him, where he sat deep in conversation with Mr. Pennell and Grace Larrimore.

Supper was served at midnight, and shortly afterward the two men from Selfridge made their departure.

"Hate to go, Ad, but we're due on deck at 5 a. m." They shook hands all around, the man who had danced so frequently with Gay coming to her place at the table for a special word of good-by.

"Thanks a lot for our dances," he said. "Next to the girl I'm engaged to, you're the best partner I've ever come across. I hope we meet again, some time."

"I hope so, too," Gay replied, sweetly.

But as the officer smiled good-by and departed, she wondered what he would say if he came into the Pontchartrain some night, and saw her checking coats! The thought brought an irrepressible smile to her lips, and she glanced up to find Wayne staring straight at her, from his end of the table.

There was something in his eyes that made Gay flush guiltily. She wanted to run and tell him that she wasn't flirting—that no one mattered to her, no one in the world, but him. It was all she could do to keep her place and answer the question which Mark Vance, sitting nearby, suddenly addressed to her.

"Will I pose next week, for the last of the illustrations? Certainly, Mark. Whenever you want me." When she looked toward Wayne again, he was talking to Mrs. Larrimore.

The party was in that dubious, after-supper stage, when the guests who are not tight are commencing to think of home, and those who still feel exhilarated start saying, "Let's go to Cliff's—" or Tom's, or some other favorite speakie—when Tim Keenan breezed in.

Wayne hailed him with evident pleasure.

"We'd about given you up. What kept you? Out stepping?"

"Of course he's been stepping!" cried Charlotte Vance. "Eleanor's away, and he'd been out looking for a little consolation, haven't you, Tim?"

"Nothing of the kind."

Mr. Keenan was in high good humor as he greeted everyone, and accepted the Scotch and soda Wayne mixed for him. "I'm a working man, I'd have you know. Directors' meeting. The rest of 'em are still up there, arguing, but I broke away."

He crossed the room and sat down beside Gay. "Here's my little Consolation," he announced, in his booming voice. "The only stepping I do from now on, is with this young lady."

Only Gay had caught the sly wink which preceded this speech, and she realized that Tim had commenced work on their plan to excite comment among Eleanor's friends. The effect was immediate. She saw Peggy Pennell and Mrs. Larrimore exchange rapid glances of surprise.

"However," Tim went on, "that's not what I started out to say. Listen, everybody. I have a little proposition to make. How'd you all like to spend a week-end at Lake Paradise—say from next Saturday morning till Sunday night?"

He lifted his hand. "Hold your horses, now, before you refuse. It's been pretty warm in town for this early in the summer, and I can offer golf, swimming, tennis, hot-and-cold-running-water — all the comforts of home and maybe a few extras. No kidding. What do you say?"

Grace Larrimore was the first to answer.

"I think it's perfectly sweet of you to invite us, Tim! I'll be delighted to accept. And you'll come too, Wayne, won't you? We've always had such gorgeous times at Tim's house parties!"

Poems That Live

"TIS BUT A LITTLE FADED FLOWER"

"Tis but a little faded flower,
But Oh, how fondly dear!
'Twill bring me back one golden hour,
Through many a weary year.
I may not to the world impart
The secret of its power,
But treasured in my inmost heart,
I keep my faded flower.
Where is the heart that doth not keep,
Within its inmost core,
Some fond remembrance, hidden deep,
Of days that are no more?
Who hath not saved some trifling thing
More prized than jewels rare—
A faded flower, a broken ring,
A tress of golden hair?

DIET AND HEALTH

Readers Ask for Care of Chronic Inebriety

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE had two letters from two widely separated parts of the country on the same subject.

Dr. Clendening

"Is there a permanent cure for inebriety? If so, can it be administered in the home?" says one from one of the wettest cities in the country.

"Is there any kind of drug that can be put in the food or drink to stop or cure the liquor habit?" asks another from one of the dryest states in the Union. So where they are doesn't make any difference if they want to get it.

I think it is fair to say that chronic alcoholism cannot be stopped with drugs alone. There is nothing that can be put into the food or drink that will take away the appetite for any length of time.

"Is there nothing that can be given unbeknown to the drinker?"

The question is even more important than the other and even more emphatically can it be said that no cure of chronic alcoholism can be administered "unbeknown" to the alcoholic. There is no medical condition—and this is a medical condition just as much as typhoid fever—that requires the co-operation of the patient as completely as a drink cure.

In the treatment of alcoholism we must distinguish between several forms of inebriation. There is the fellow who is just plain drunk—acutely drunk. There have been methods of examination used lately to tell how drunk such a person is, but when he gets to a certain stage they aren't necessary. The next morning after he has left it off he will feel terrible, but if he has will power enough to let the next 24 hours get by he will be all right.

If, however, he decides to brace up with a drink or two—saying something about the hair of the dog that bit him—he will be in danger of going into a second stage—the bender of several days' or weeks' duration. This needs careful medical care. Delirium tremens occurs not from too much drinking but from sudden withdrawal, and experienced medical care considers this.

The other type of drinker is the regular daily one. Here a distinction recently made is worth considering. The director of a sanitarium says that a man is not a drunkard so long as he gets up in the morning and does his work. If he is sober until 6 p. m., he does not need treatment and treatment will not do him any good.

It is the daily drinker who starts in the morning and is never either drunk or sober who is the real alcoholic problem. And he must be treated in a sanitarium by phychological methods. The cure, to be permanent, requires about a year's time.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

BUTTER A PIECE OF
Honey Boy Bread
Remember how the butter used to spread over the golden crusted bread of your childhood? Remember how good it always tasted after school? That's the sort of taste-thrill you have in store when you butter your first piece of Honey Boy Bread! There's an old-time, home-made flavor . . . the sort of taste that makes you gobble up the last crumb and reach for another piece. It's a flavor you'll find uniformly in EVERY loaf, and you'll find Honey Boy Bread at most independent grocers.

LOUIS AND SHARKEY TO BATTLE TONIGHT; LOSER TO FACE FISTIC OBLIVION

NEGRO EXPECTS TO HIT MIDRIFF OF EX-CHAMPION

Dempsey's Contention That Joe Is "Gun Shy" To Be Proved In East

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—(UP)—The "battle of the unknown quantity" in 10 rounds or less between Joe Louis, 22-year-old Detroit negro, and Jack Sharkey, 33-year-old ex-heavyweight champion from Boston — both on the treacherous comeback trail — goes on in the battle-pit at Yankee stadium tonight.

A crowd of 40,000 or more will pay upwards of $200,000. Two months ago Sharkey would have had trouble getting a job as sparring partner for the Brown Bomber. Today Sharkey talks about fighting for the heavyweight title next year. He figures Louis is a soft touch.

Sharkey "Unknown"

From the day he exploded the myth of invincibility that cloaked Harry Wills in 1926 until he was knocked out by Primo Carnera's "invisible punch" and lost his title, Sharkey has been the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the boxing game. No one ever has been able to tell what to expect from the temperamental Lithuanian. Two and a half years of sofe living haven't changed his spots. No one can tell what he will do when he faces the young negro.

Louis, not the supremely confident warrior of pre-Schmeling days is definitey a "Mr. X." He is far from the fierce, two-fisted fighting machine which annihilated sparring partners in training sessions prior to his K. O. by Max Schmeling. He actually backed away from spar-mates in his Pompton Lakes camp. There is no talk of what round he'll get his man in. He merely says, "I expect a tough fight."

Many competent critics believe that Louis will never shake off the effects of the terrific beating he took from Schmeling. Jack Dempsey says, "I think Louis is gun shy".

Slug at Stomach

Indications in Louis' training sessions were that the negro will concentrate his attack on Sharkey's midriff — generally recognized as the weak spot in the armor of any fighter nearing 34 — in an attempt to bring the sailor's guard down for a K.O. punch to the jaw. It will be remembered that Dempsey employed the same plan on Sharkey in 1927 and won by a K.O. in seven rounds.

HELFRICHS DROP CLOSE 3-2 TILT TO JACKSON NINE

New Holland Helfrichs lost a tough 2 to 3 game Sunday at Jackson although Shadel Saunders gave only five hits. All the Jackson runs were unearned, while but one of New Holland's should have been marked up.

Noon's triple and Lawrence's single plated the one earned run of the ball game.

The Jackson hurler gave five hits, while each team committed three errors.

Sunday, New Holland and Darbyville tangle on the Holland field.

OWENS TO SAIL DESPITE RULING OF A. A. U. CHIEF

LONDON, Aug. 18 — (UP) — Jesse Owens sails from Southampton aboard the Queen Mary for home tomorrow and he doesn't care "a couple of hoots" about his imminent suspension by the American A.A.U.

"I guess I might as well consider myself suspended," the negro star of the Olympics said, "because I'm not going to participate in the track meet scheduled in Sweden starting Wednesday."

Owens had agreed to compete at Stockholm, according to A.A.U. officials. When he fails to appear there at starting time, suspension will follow automatically.

"I'm going home," Jesse said, "because I'm tired and I want to see my wife. It's been exactly two months and three weeks since I saw her."

He pointed out that too much running makes him go stale, as last year when Eulace Peacock beat him in the A.A.U. championships, and "I certainly don't want that to happen again." Jesse said his "conscience is clear" and that A.A.U. officials are being "very unfair to me."

REDS PLAY LAST NIGHT GAME AGAINST CARDINALS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18.—(UP)—The final night game of the 1936 baseball season was to be played here tonight when the Cincinnati Reds meet the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ray (Peaches) Davis, the rookie right-hander who gained credit for one of Cincinnati's triumphs over the Chicago Cubs Sunday was scheduled to hurl for the Reds.

Either Si Johnson, a former Red secured by the Cardinals in a St. Louis-Cincinnati - Columbus - Toronto exchange of players, or Roy Parmelee was to pitch for Frankie Frisch's club.

OILS AND DAIRY PLAY 5 TO 5 TIE IN CITY LEAGUE

Cities Service Oils and Pickaway Dairy played a hot 5 to 5 draw Monday evening in the softball league. Darkness forced the end of hostilities with both teams battling for an advantage.

Jaggy Davis was the Oil hurler, while Blair tossed them for the Dairy.

Several long hits were recorded, Eby and Merrriman each clouting two triples, and Ferguson and Wellington connecting for the same distance.

The game will probably not be played off until the end of the softball league second half.

Tonight the Circleville Oils and Eagles tangle with Bill Hegele and Raymond Smith to be the opposing moundsmen.

BOYS ARE URGED TO FORM TEAMS IN WPA LEAGUE

Harold Hoy, WPA recreational supervisor announced Tuesday that new equipment has arrived for softball games. He urged local youths to report for practice. Plans are being made to organize a number of junior softball leagues.

John Ferguson, Lancaster pike, was appointed a junior supervisor Monday to assist in getting the softball program under way.

Construction was started Monday on the tennis, volley ball and horse shoe pitching courts at the Gordon lot, E. Corwin street. Charles Holland, Jr., will be supervisor of the Gordon playground.

All Circleville boys not over 16 years of age are asked to report at the Southern Ohio Electric Co. field Wednesday between 8:30 and 9 a. m. to form softball teams. Ashville has two teams in the WPA recreation program, and one from each end of Circleville is sought.

M'GEE HURLS AND HITS RED BIRDS TO 4 TO 2 MARGIN

BY UNITED PRESS

The Kansas City Blues cooperated nicely yesterday to give the Milwaukee Brewers a seven-game American association lead. The Blues beat second-place St. Paul and moved into a battle with the Saints for place honors.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee breezed through a 12 to 2 victory over Minneapolis, with Pitcher Pressnell getting credit for an 8-hit game.

The Blues' Wyatt, a speed hurled when he's feeling up-to-standard, shot them past Saints' batsmen all evening, giving his team a 5-3 victory. The Blues one-game rise still leaves them ten games behind Milwaukee.

In the east, Columbus and Indianapolis fought for 14 innings, the Birds finally staging a rally to win 4-2. The Indians lost to McGee's hurling and his hitting. He started the 14th inning rally that won the game.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Ted Lyons, 35-year-old right hander now in his 14th consecutive year with the Chicago White Sox, who pitched his team to a 7-3 victory over Cleveland.

About This And That In Many Sports

Owens Controversy

The dispute surrounding the plan of Jesse Owens, Ohio State negro ace, to turn professional is uncalled for—There is only one thing Owens can do out of justification to himself and to his family, and that is become professional—The call of the mazuma, and the need of it, is reason enough for the dusky athlete to cash in for all his reputation is worth

Lay Off St. John!

Interference by L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, is not necessary, nor, it is believed, will it have any effect on the plans of Owens and his coach and self-appointed manager, Larry Snyder * * *

Brundage's End Near?

If everything Snyder has said about Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., is true, then there should be a grand and glorious shakeup in the Olympic committee—Brundage, according to Snyder, is everything but a gentleman and handles the Olympic athletes like a Simon Legree — Snyder's blast against the highest officer in the Amateur Athletic Union is not the only challenge hurled at him this year—Eleanor Holm Jarrett has been very sarcastic concerning her treatment — Maybe there is something more to the Holm-Jarrett ouster than a "couple of cocktails" aboard the ship traveling to Berlin * * *

What's Fight Result?

When and how will the Louis-Sharkey fight end tonight?—That is a question prevailing in the minds of many sports fans—Defeat for the dusky Louis might end a career that a few months was branded as the most promising in fight history—A victory by the Detroiter would end Jack Sharkey's attempted comeback—The bout will be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup * * *

CARPENTER NEARS RECORD WITH HIS DISCUS THROW

PRAGUE, Aug. 18.—(UP) — Kenneth Carpenter of Compton, Calif., Olympic discus champion, came within 10-64 of an inch of the world record when he tossed the discus 174 feet 1 31-64 inches in an exhibition meet yesterday.

The toss compared with the world record of 174 feet 1 41-64 inches credited to Willie Schroeder of Germany, and Carpenter's Olympic mark of 165 feet 29-64 inches.

Vallee to Present Helen Vinson, Fred Perry Together First Time

ACTRESS, TENNIS PLAYER-HUSBAND HEARD THURSDAY

Mitzi Green, Child Star of Screen, Others on Weekly Hour

Helen Vinson and Fred Perry, screen star and No. 1 ranking tennis player of the world, respectively, will be heard together for the first time as dramatic players on Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour next Thursday. These two, who in private life are Mr. and Mrs.. Perry, will do the famous balcony scene from Noel Coward's "Private Lives."

Charles Butterworth returns for the second week in succession in this broadcast over a WEAF-NBC network at 7 p. m. (EST) and Mitzi Green, child star of the screen, and the comedy team of Billie Hayward and Cliff Allen will also be in the cast.

Miss Vinson and Perry have both been on the Vallee Hour before but they have never been featured together in a drama. Both have great gifts for light comedy and so the scene from "Private Lives" was selected.

Butterworth made such a hit with everybody during rehearsals last week's show in his "Salesman" sketch that even before the broadcast he was signed for another appearance this week. He'll have another comedy along the same lines.

Mitzi Green, one of the more amusing child stars of a few years back, is now growing up into a young lady who can still entertain audiences. About three years ago she made a smashing success on this program with her impersonations and as a result has come back several times.

Miss Hayward and Allen, the comics of the show, are making their first appearance in a big network program with this engaged. They are currently featured in the Broadway revue, "New Faces".

DAUGHTER OVERWHELMED

For the first time since he was married twelve years ago, Smith Ballew, Chateau master of ceremonies, is living in a house. Twelve years ago he quit his job in a band in Texas to marry Mrs. Ballew, and immediately started to travel. Ever since they've lived in hotels and apartments.

The house is in Hollywood, built in three stories on a hillside, and completely furnished in French style. There's a rock garden and it's surrounded by large trees. Ballew's daughter, Justine, 6½ years old, is living in a new world, and insisted on her daddy fixing up a fountain for the mocking birds who make their home nearby, so they can have fresh water and take a bath without too much trouble. Smith likes it particularly because it is within walking distance of some tennis courts where he plays every day.

The Ballew are having trunks and boxes shipped to Hollywood from all parts of the country where they have been in storage. These include more than 5,000 phonograph records which he has made during his career as an entertainer. Ballew holds the unique distinction of having made more recordings than any other man in the business, according to official files. He plans making more soon in Hollywood, and will begin work in the near future on a new motion picture for RKO studios, where he is under contract.

FIVE ARONSON PROPERTIES SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION MONDAY AFTERNOON

SIX OF PARCELS FAIL TO BRING BIDS AT SALE

C. A. Leist Bids In Four Holdings; Miss Hoffman Purchases Other

BANK BUYS SCIOTO LAND

194 Acres Bring Offer Of $62 By Firm

Four of the properties of the late Rubin Aronson, offered at public auction Monday afternoon at the courthouse, were purchased by Attorney C. A. Leist. One was bought by Miss Florence Hoffman, E. Union street. Six failed to sell.

Those purchased by Mr. Leist were No. 319 E. Main street, just east of Washington street, appraised at $2,500, purchase price $1,667; tract on north side of Lancaster pike just east of Pontius Lane, appraised at $1,500, purchase price $1,200; No. 455 Watt street, appraised at $800, purchase price $554, and No. 459 Watt street, appraised at $600, purchased for $400.

Other on High Street

The property purchased by Miss Hoffman is located at 209-11 W. High street. It was appraised at $2,000 and sold at $1,334.

The properties that failed to sell included two tracts on Town street appraised as a whole at $1,000; No. 842 Maplewood avenue, appraised at $750; No. 844 Maplewood avenue, appraised at $700; No. 848 Maplewood avenue, appraised at $600, and No. 141 York street, appraised at $300.

Mrs Anna H. Aronson is executrix of the estate.

Approximately 194 acres of Scioto township land were purchased Monday afternoon by the Ashville Banking Co., at sheriff's auction for $62 an acre.

The land was sold in the foreclosure proceedings of the banking company against Harry B. Carpenter and others. It was appraised at $75 per acre.

MAYOR'S COURT KEPT BUSY BY DRUNKS, FIGHTS

Ed Phillips, Island road, was bound to the grand jury under $100 bond Monday by Mayor W. J. Graham on an assault charge filed by Joe Hickey. Phillips arranged to furnish bond.

Previously Hickey had been bound to the grand jury under $200 bond on a charge of cutting with intent to wound Phillips. The charges grew out of an altercation in the southend of the city Sunday evening.

Clifford Henry, colored, E Franklin street, posted $20 bond in police court Monday night to appear Tuesday evening on an assault charge filed by Homer Young, colored, Route 5. The police said the charge resulted from a fight in a southend beer parlor Saturday night.

Howard Rogers, 21, Walnut street, was assessed $10 and costs by Mayor Graham on a reckless driving charge. He arranged to settle.

Mayor Graham reported Ben Valentine, 64, charged with being drunk and disorderly was lectured and released. George Rambo, city, forfeited a $5 bond on a disorderly conduct charge.

COUNTY AGREES TO WAYNE ROAD

Two Commissioners Approve Resolution To Free Ohio From Damage

The last legal step for the construction of a new road through the Immel farm, Wayne township, in connection with the Government Resettlement program, was taken Monday by the county commissioners.

B. H. Rader and Ralph May signed a resolution for the county to assume responsibility for any damages resulting from improvements, freeing the state highway department of liability. Commissioner C. E. Wright did not sign the resolution.

Construction of the gravel road will be in charge of the state highway department with no expense to the county. The right of way will be obtained by the government. It will be constructed under contract. The commissioners recently made an agreement with the Wayne township trustees to add the road to the township system.

The road will be 1,681 miles in leng'h and will be in the shape of an L through the property.

U. S. SENDS AID TO TWO FISHING BOATS IN PACIFIC

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 18.—(UP)—Two fishing boats, each manned by a crew of ten men, were breaking up and in need of immediate assistance in the northern end of Magdalena Bay, Baja California, Mackay radio reported early today.

Shortly after the Enterprise, a tuna clipper owned by a sea food company sent an S. O. S., the Magellan advised by short wave radio it had lost both anchors and its rudder in heavy seas.

The captain of the Magellan said:

"We are about ready to go overboard."

The coast guard Cutter Calypso, enroute to rescue the Enterprise, intercepted the message, timed 4:20 a. m. The Calypso was believed proceeding to the Enterprise and the Panama and Santa Theresa, sister ships, were reported standing by the Magellan.

The Magellan gave its position as "near the custons house in northeastern portion Magdalena Bay." This location was believed but a few miles from the Enterprise.

LOYALISTS MOVE TO STOP REBELS

paper Secuolo reported today. Almendalejo is 35 miles southeast of Badajoz and has a population of about 17,000.

The dispatch said the loyalists made their stronghold in Almendralejo in the parish church tower, where they resisted for five days until the rebel artillery had almost destroyed it.

Surrender, Slain

The rebels then starved out the defenders, whose leader was thrown from the tower when he tried to surrender. The next day, however, the loyalists hoisted a white shirt, threw their rifles and machine guns in the street and surrendered unconditionally.

The rebels entered the church and made prisoners of 43 woebegone defenders, whom they led out singly, court-martialed and shot, except for three who weepingly insisted they had been forced to fight against their will.

HENDAYE, French - Spanish Frontier, Aug. 18—(UP) — The Spanish rebel battleship Espana resumed a heavy bombardment of Irun today.

Loyalists in dominating Guadelupe overlooking Irun opened up with artillery on rebels entrenched around the city, and strongly reinforced during the night.

A report was flashed out at Cijon, farther west on the coast, 1,000 rebel regulars who had held out for many days in two barracks surrendered and that many had been executed summarily.

CANADA'S UNION FORCES VICTORS IN QUEBEC VOTE

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 18.—(UP) —Leaders of the National Union party, overwhelming victors in yesterday's provincial elections, promised today to effect a revolution in Quebec administrative affairs.

Having routed the liberal party from a 39-year tenure of office the National Unionites are bent on completely overhauling the provincial administration and on a social and industrial reform in which several United States firms may be cast in the role of villain.

During their campaign some leaders of the National Union, an alliance of the conservative party with a group of dissident liberals, even advocated secession from the British empire. Maurice Duplessis, 40-year-old conservative leader who will become premier, disavowed that policy but his associates may force him to an intense nationalism.

The national union's power in the new government will be complete. The coalition won 76 seats in the legislature, the liberals only 14.

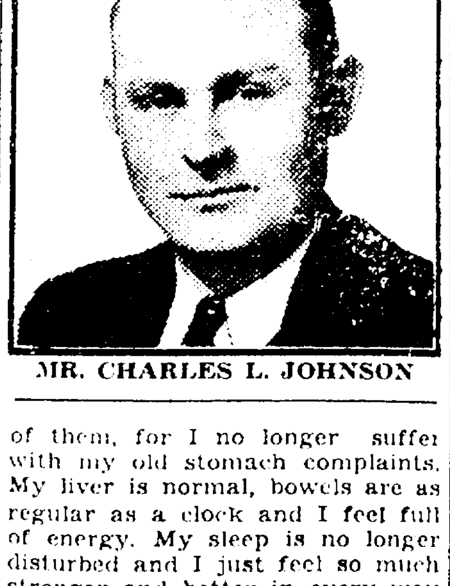
HERE IS GRAND NEWS FOR VICTIMS OF INDIGESTION

Well Known Citizen Had Suffered from Disordered Stomach for Years. Bowels Constipated, Sluggish Liver Caused Dizzy Spells.



MR. CHARLES L. JOHNSON

"For a long time my stomach had been causing trouble and had been getting worse and worse until I lost practically all desire to eat. What little nourishment I took brought on painful attacks of indigestion and the acid risings were so bad that my mouth often felt like it had been burned," said Mr. Charles L. Johnson of 299 E. Second St., Chillicothe, Ohio.

"A disorder of my liver caused frequent bilious speels and made me feel listless and miserable. My nerves became jumpy and I was able to sleep only a few hours some nights. My bowels were in a constipated condition all the time.

"I read in the papers so often how men and women all around here were receiving such fine results from these same troubles, so I decided to try Vendol, and now I am enjoying the best health I have had in years. I eat three meals a day and enjoy every one of them, for I no longer suffer with my old stomach complaints. My liver is normal, bowels are as regular as a clock and I feel full of energy. My sleep is no longer disturbed and I just feel so much stronger and better in every way that it is a real pleasure to tell others about Vedol."

Vendol is sold by all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended in this city by Hamilton & Ryan Pythian Castle.
